JOHN BALDESSARI

John Baldessari was born on June 17, 1931 in National City, California. He received a Bachelor of Arts from San Diego State University and did post-graduate work at Otis Art Institute, Chouinard Art Institute and UC Berkeley. He taught for many years at the California Institute of the Arts and subsequently for 11 years at UCLA. Early in his career as a Conceptual Artist, Baldessari began incorporating images and text utilized by the advertising and movie industries into his photo-based art. He appropriated pictures and movie stills, creating strange juxtapositions and abrupt fragmentations in conjunction with written texts. The resulting combination of photography and language often counters the narrative associations suggested by the isolated scenes and offers a greater plurality of meanings. Throughout his long and celebrated career, Baldessari has continued to play with – and critique – popular culture, over time increasing the scale and visual impact of his work.

Baldessari began his first full series collaboration with Los Angeles-based artist's workshop Gemini G.E.L. in 1991 by constructing montages of color photographs using lithography and screenprinting techniques. While working at Gemini on the print Two Opponents (Blue and Yellow) in 2004, Baldessari began to draft plans for his next project with the workshop, the Person with Guitar series. The resulting three-layer screenprint constructions feature cropped black-and-white photographic images mounted in relief onto flat areas of guitar-shaped color. The Guitar series was a point of departure for his later work with Gemini and was soon followed by Noses & Ears, Etc., a series of portraits of flat dense colored faces interrupted by photographic noses and ears. Baldessari has expanded the use of multimedia in his projects, creating the cast aluminum ceiling piece God Nose in 2007, and in his 2010 collaboration with the Gemini workshop, Baldessari re-examines two-dimensional portraiture with a fabric and paper collage series featuring his staff members' feet, titled Foot and Stocking (With Big Toe Exposed).

In 1981 Baldessari's first mid-career survey was organized by the New Museum and his art has been featured in more than 120 solo exhibitions in the United States and Europe, and in over 300 group exhibitions. Beyond his 2-dimensional artworks, Baldessari has created numerous artist books, videos, films, billboards and public works. His awards include a Golden Lion Lifetime Achievement Award, granted in 2009 at the 53rd International Venice Biennale, the BACA International 2008, a Lifetime Achievement Award from Americans for the Arts in 2005, the Governors Award for Lifetime Achievement in the Visual Arts in California, the Oscar Kokoschka Prize from Austria, and the Spectrum-International Award for Photography of the Foundation of Lower Saxony, Germany. His most recent projects include a commissioned project at the Deutsche Guggenheim Berlin, curatorial projects at the Smithsonian Hirshhorn Museum in Washington D.C. and at the Los Angeles County Museum of Art, and a retrospective organized in 2009 by the Tate Modern and Los Angeles County Museum of Art titled Pure Beauty. In 2009, the Legion of Honor in San Francisco also organized a retrospective focusing exclusively on Baldessari's prints.

John Baldessari lives and works in Santa Monica, California.
